BEST SPRING GARDENS FOR MAY: INTERNATIONAL IRIS GARDEN AND THE ROSE GARDEN

The Iris is the symbol of Florence, the deep red of the Giglio di Firenze! Until May 20, you should spend part of every day in the Iris Garden above Florence, breathing in fresh air, avoiding the crowds and restoring your spirits. Expect beautiful flowers, meticulously refined over generations by the careful hands of their keepers. Even if you're not passionate about flowers, it is a refreshing splash of early summer colour in a beautiful city. In May, gardeners from all over the world flock to Florence to admire the stunning blooms, as the renowned Iris Garden opens its gates to the public for the International Iris Competition. The closing prize-giving ceremony is held at Palazzo Vecchio. The winner of the first prize receives a Gold Florin. A special prize offered by the Florence Council is awarded to the red variety, thanks the Iris depicted on the banner of the City.

The Iris Garden of Piazzale Michelangelo was created in 1954. The Garden, initially designed by the architect G. Zetti, was inaugurated in May 1957. It was enriched, in the meantime, by donations made by numerous foreign growers and also by a large collection of historic Irises from the Presby Memorial Garden of Montclair (New Jersey), USA. In 1967, a small lake was constructed in the lower area of the garden to allow cultivation of the Japanese and Louisiana irises in the surrounding boggy land. Specialists, botanists, hybridisers and horticulturists from all over the world visit and work in the Garden.

While you are so close, it is the perfect time to visit the stunning Florence Rose Garden. Open all year around, the roses are in full bloom throughout May, and with over 350 different types of roses to enjoy, this is a heavenly treat for your senses. The scent of roses and their velvety bursts of colour are a great backdrop to enjoying the view of the city, or taking a book to enjoy on the grass. Also in the rose garden are sculptures by Belgian artist, Jean Michael Folon, which sit against the Florence city backdrop beautifully. There is also a Japanese Garden with a waterfall and tea pagoda that was a gift to Florence from the city of Kyoto.

BEST EVENT FOR MAY: NATIONAL HOLIDAY AND THE HISTORIC FLAG THROWING CONTEST

May 1

It's the Labor Day holiday in Italy and across Europe, in honour of the workers of the world. Italians will be enjoying the day off, and there will be less buses and trains than usual. But there's no reason to stay home, because there is the incredibly exciting flag throwing competition, where expert flag throwers compete for the Marzocco Trophy! The Marzocco is the heraldic lion that represents the free Republic of Florence, with the most famous Marzocco located in Piazza della Signoria where the contest is being held. The original statue was created by Donatello in the 15th Century, and is now housed in the Bargello, while a copy rests in its place in the piazza. The lion is carved with his paw placed protectively over the symbol of Florence, the red lily.

The flag throwing demonstrates extremely talented choreography, creating a stunning visual effect as the flags twirl and fly through the air. The performances are accompanied by live music, and the whole event is a colourful spectacular. An exciting display that can be enjoyed by children and families.

BEST FESTIVAL FOR MAY: FABBRICA EUROPA ARTS AND PERFORMANCE FESTIVAL: 25TH EDITION

May 4 - June 10

For lovers of theatre, dance, contemporary performance, installation, art, and everything in between.

“Retracing our steps towards the essence: from the Far East to Europe, passing through the Middle East and the cultures that cross the Balkans and Eastern Europe and flow into that open Mediterranean which linked the Arab world to the Berber traditions and reached the heart of creative and philosophical Western thought.

Fabbrica Europa's twenty-fifth anniversary, experienced not as a celebration but as Year Zero for the start of a new breath of creativity, sought in a palpating essence to be perceived and captured in order to extract its vitality, its pulse, its meaning.

The bare Stazione Leopolda rediscovered, its space becomes a body that springs to life and takes on the creative signs and actions of our times, eclectic and ever more polymorphous. Not the Leopolda alone: the Festival also inhabits the old Scuderie Granducali delle Cascine, a decidedly unconventional space, stimulating and versatile, lending itself to various stage formats. And yet again Fabbrica Europa involves important Florentine theatres (from the Teatro Goldoni and the Teatro della Pergola to the Teatro Cantiere Florida), consolidating its position as the city's multi-disciplinary Festival.”

It is Mother's Day in Italy, the day to celebrate precious mothers everywhere or any special woman who helped to raise you. For those travelling with their mother in Florence on May 13th, remember to give her an extra hug and wish her the happiest of days, Italian style of course... with an Aperol Spritz toast, Springtime flowers, or an extra-large, double scoop of gelato!

BEST EXHIBITION FOR MAY: ARTIGIANATO E PALAZZO XXIV EDITION

May 17-20

100 Italian and foreign master craftsmen are the centre of this XXIV edition. For four days in the Limonaia, along the avenues of the monumental Garden and in the new space of the Monti delle Monache, they will perform live demonstrations of manual work, transmitting to the public the rich heritage of knowledge and use of the techniques that make their work unique.

The "BLOGS & CRAFTS the young artisans and the web" contest, which focuses on and promotes the creativity and artistic expression of the young generations, reaches the fifth edition. For the first time the 10 artisans under 35 winners of the competition will be hosted in a special Limonaia completely renovated where they can work and exhibit their creations. At the same time, the brightest bloggers selected for the 2018 edition will tell live blogging throughout the exhibition, the artisans and its most salient features.

Among the unmissable initiatives "Family Recipes" - created in collaboration with Richard Ginori, Riccardo Barthel and Desinare - a gastronomic appointment by the journalist Annamaria Tossani, which for this edition will be inspired by some historical objects preserved in the "Museo di Doccia" and today are little used. Every day at 6.00 pm in the Giardinetto delle Roses famous guests will tell anecdotes about the history of the objects and will propose recipes that will be interpreted by the chefs of Desinare and offered for tasting to the public on new porcelain dishes specially created for the initiative by Richard Ginori.

In addition, every day at 7.00pm the "Mani che componono" presents a project by multi-instrumentalist cellist Naomi Berrill who connects crafts and music, through a series of different crafts, in which the music will change depending on the various processes that are encountered and the atmosphere of each individual craftsman: from pre-baroque music to contemporary jazz, through the most sophisticated pop, the classic of the '900 and the colors of Irish folk.

At the Corsini Garden, another novelty of this edition, you can find food trucks of some of the best Italian taste artisans for a gastronomic experience between street food and regional culinary traditions: LùBar that offers the authentic Sicilian arancini, La Toraia with its specialties based on Chianina meat, Pescepane with exquisite dishes based on seafood, Il Panino Tondo offering sophisticated sandwiches for all tastes, even vegetarians, La Pentolina that will serve pastries and coffee for breakfast and aperitifs at sunset, Bocconio of Lamporecchio who prepares the traditional "brigidini" and other fanciful sweets, Vivoli that produces homemade ice cream since 1929.

This year the event is a special fundraiser for the reopening of “Il Museo di Doccia”, with the main exhibition space showcasing the work of master porcelain artisan Richard Ginori. The special fundraiser aims to return to the public more than 8000 treasures of porcelain, ceramic, majolica, terracotta, and lead, including over 13,000 drawings, engraved metal plates, chromolithographic stones, plaster models, and wax sculptures.

BEST DINING OUT FOR MAY: GUCCI OSTERIA BY MASSIMO BOTTURA

From Girl in Florence

“This is undoubtedly one of the city’s most buzzed-about openings for 2018 and naturally, the inauguration was during Pitti Uomo. Yes my friends, Gucci, the fashion house has decided to add food to the mix with their new 50 seat restaurant in Palazzo della Mercanzia and the menu is designed by none other than Michelin Star chef Massimo Bottura of Osteria Francescana in Modena. Apparently reservations are hard to come by so call now if you want to check it out. Dishes include a fancypants burger (€15/$18), a Chianina hot dog (€15), steamed bun with pork belly (€15) and, of course, tortellini in Parmesan sauce (€20) lending to Bottura’s Emilia roots. I have yet to eat there.”

BEST OF THE REST FOR MAY

SPRING GELATO FLAVOURS: AT ALL THE GELATERIE!

Here are some tips from our favourite food blogger, The Curious Appetite, on how to make sure you’re choosing the best gelato!

“How to spot quality and trashy gelato in Italy (especially Florence)

1. NO: Flat, almost ribbon/wavy gelato, not big neon-colored mounds. Please avoid the big mounds!
2. NO: Bright colors. There are not bright colors where bright colors do not exist in nature.
3. YES: stainless steel tins with covers cradling them, keeping them cool.
4. Usually a wholly artisanal gelato is not found in a major historical site square, along the arno/at the bridges– as they usually serve industrial gunk. Read the ingredient lists- it may taste good but is it truly artisanal?
5. The best gelato can be found on my blog or on my instagram feed.
6. Edible gelato is not at a “self-service” cafeteria. Pizza is good, but a decent gelateria will never sell gelato and pizza, or any other food for that matter, side by side. The exception being Ara' the Sicilian street food joint near the Accademia who sells mega arancine rice & ragu balls.

7. Anything with a label indicating a name brand is nasty. I.e. I see some gelato cases with a grocery store brand gelato logo on the flavor tag, like Cinque Stelle. This is very obvious that the place is NOT making their own gelato and they are in fact, scooping it pre-made from one bucket to another.
8. Gelato sold at a coffee and/or bakery shop. Coffee served at a gelateria is O.K. Coffee shops I guarantee 95% of the time are not making gelato from scratch.
9. Look for "Produzione Propria/ Gelato Artigianale." This SHOULD mean gelato made in-house, in the artisanal fashion. This does not always guarantee utmost quality, by the way. They could still be using pre-made mixes for their "house-made" gelato...it's still technically made in house. A tale-tell sign is if they have a big, corny ice-cream cone cut-outs advertising in big letters "homemade production." in English or Italian.
10. If everything is in English, not a good sign."

With that in mind, here is a quick list of our favourite gelaterie around the city.

I CUGINI - Borgo Pinti 69

A Bar Latteria that is popular among locals, and recommended by our own Suzanne Pitcher. Very good ice cream, not many flavours but high on the list for quality.

GELATERIA DE' MEDICI - NEW LOCATION in Piazza Beccaria 7R, original location Via dello Statuto 3-5/R

Boasting a delicious ginger ice cream, they have been voted in the top 10 gelaterie in Florence. With two locations to choose from, there's no excuse not to indulge.

MY SUGAR - Via de' Ginori 49/R

A serious contender for best gelato in town, who just picked up two medals at the recent Gelato Festival. Try their Dark chocolate and Chianti, or the Cinnamon Cream. Dairy Free gelato available for the lactose intolerant.

CARAPINA - Piazza G. Oberdan 2/R

A particular favourite of foodies in Florence. Seasonal fruit sorbets and indulgent flavours like Pinenut, Amaretto, Pasitera, and Pecorino. Seriously good gelato.

CANTINA DEL GELATO - Via dei Bardi 31

One of my personal favourites, I am constantly poking my head in to see if their irresistible peanut butter gelato is in store. The flavours are made fresh every day, and they aren't afraid to experiment with wild flavours like Brazilian fruits or Pineapple, Mint and Ginger.

LA FIORITA PARADE IN PIAZZA DELLA SIGNORIA: REMEMBERING THE DEATH OF SAVONAROLA

May 23

Join the commemoration of Savonarola's death, May 23, in Piazza della Signoria and parade in historic centre. The annual commemoration of Fra' Girolamo Savonarola's death with La Fiorita, a floral ceremony, will begin with mass in the priori chapel of Palazzo Vecchio and continue with a traditional costume parade that will loop the historic centre and return to Piazza della Signoria. After a brief speech on this Florentine tradition, flowers will be left on Savonarola's tomb, and the parade will proceed to the Arno, where flowers will be symbolically thrown into the river.

Girolamo Savonarola Dominican friar and puritan fanatic, became moral dictator of the city of Florence when the Medici were temporarily driven out in 1494. A visionary, prophet and formidably effective hellfire preacher, obsessed with human wickedness and convinced that the wrath of God was about to fall upon the earth, he detested practically every form of pleasure and relaxation.

Savonarola made many powerful enemies. Among them was the Borgia pope, Alexander VI, who eventually excommunicated the rigorous friar. On Palm Sunday in 1498 St Mark's was attacked by a screaming mob and Savonarola was arrested by the Florentine authorities with two friars who were among his most ardent followers, Fra' Domenico and Fra' Salvestro. All three were cruelly tortured before being condemned as heretics. On the morning of May 23rd a crowd of Florentines gathered in the Piazza della Signoria, where a scaffold had been erected on a platform for hanging the men, before burning the bodies to ashes (a plaque marks the spot today). It is said that a priest standing near asked Savonarola what he felt about this approaching martyrdom. He answered, 'The Lord has suffered as much for me,' and these were his last recorded words. (www.historytoday.com)

The hidden Salone di Donatello is hosting an eclectic, free-entry exhibition spotlighting a collective of contemporary artists whose works were brought together by Florence-based Vito Abba. Not united by a single theme, but chosen by Abba simply based on quality and originality, the OpenArtCode exhibition works have authors from Italy, Japan, Belgium, the United States, France and many others, and span a variety of media, from photography and painting to repurposed doors with fresh coats of paint and overlaid conceptual photography. Entrance to the exhibition is free; for additional information see Studio Abba's website.”

NEW OPENING: MUSEUM OF MODERN AND CONTEMPORARY ART BY COLLECTOR ROBERTO CASAMONTI AT THE PALAZZO BARTOLINI SALIMBENI

Until March 2019

(From: artnet.com)

The Italian art dealer and collector Roberto Casamonti is giving his home city of Florence what it has been missing for a few centuries—a museum of Modern and contemporary art. The 78-year-old founder of Tornabuoni Art unveils parts of his personal collection in a Renaissance-era palace on March 24, which he says will be the first institution in the city to be dedicated solely to modern and contemporary art.

Casamonti has selected 250 works from his personal collection of more than 5,000 works by Italian and international artists, which include pieces by Warhol and Picasso, and Basquiat. They will hang in the ornate rooms of the 16th century Palazzo Bartolini Salimbeni, under 20-foot-high ceilings decorated in gold leaf.

The first two exhibitions at the Casamonti Collection are being organized by Bruno Corà, the president of the Fondazione Alberto Burri. Corà has selected the painting by Giorgio de Chirico, Deux Pigeons by Picasso, and several works by Lucio Fontana for the inaugural show. It will be followed by an exhibition focusing on post-1960s art, which will feature works by Keith Haring, Anish Kapoor and Jean-Michel Basquiat as well as later works by Fontana. Alongside these, the collection will also be showing an important body of works by the Arte Povera conceptual artist Alighiero Boetti. Casamonti was a personal friend of the artist.

SPAIN AND ITALY: CULTURAL INTERPLAY IN RENAISSANCE EUROPE

Until May 27

From Tuesday 27 February to 27 May, the finest and most important works from the collection of drawings housed in the Gallerie degli Uffizi's Gabinetto dei Disegni e delle Stampe – most of which form part of a donation made by Emilio Santarelli in 1866, but which began to be put together in the late 18th century – will be on display in the new rooms of the Aula Magliabechiana which recently hosted the three successive stages of an exhibition on Japanese screens.

It was in the 15th century that Spain set out on the march to unity that was to lead in the fullness of time to its becoming a monarchy, then an empire and a power of global proportions, but it did so on the basis of complex and diversified artistic traditions.

The exhibition showcases drawings of superb quality attributed with absolute certainty to such masters as Alonso Berruguete, who trained in Florence and Rome and who was one of the first artists to carry the Renaissance style west of the Pyrenees, or as Romolo Cincinnato and Pompeo Leoni, two Italian artists summoned to work on the most prestigious royal commissions in Spain. It also hosts drawings by Francisco Pacheco, Patricio and Eugenio Cajés, and Vicente Carducho, leading players in the season that brought the 16th century in Spain to a close.

PAINTING AND DRAWING LIKE A TRUE MASTER: THE TALENT OF ELISABETTA SIRANI

Until June 10

"Painting and drawing like a true Master: the Talent of Elisabetta Sirani" (Dipingere e disegnare "da gran maestro": il talento di Elisabetta Sirani (Bologna, 1638-1665)) is dedicated to the Bolognese painter who, thanks also to a prodigious rapidity of execution, made a great name for herself both for the ease with which she worked, as well as the sureness of touch which is as evident in her sketches and incisions as it is in her canvases. "Like a true Master" is certainly the right term for her, it's enough to look at her deeply felt Madonna and Child with St Giovannino from Pesaro, and the freshness of touch and of the diluted ink in The Beheading of St John the Baptist conserved in the Uffizi and the St Jerome from the Pinacoteca Nazionale di Bologna.

Thirty Four works sourced from both public and private collections all over Italy, as well as the Self Portrait as an Allegory of Painting, from the Pushkin Museum in Moscow, which are now on display in the Sala Edoardo Detti and in the Sala del Camino, on the first floor of the Galleria degli Uffizi until June 10th. As the Director of the Gallerie degli Uffizi, Eike Schmidt has put it "the stunning appeal of Sirani's output is not so much the fact that she was a female artist, and a very competent one at that, in a city that could already boast Lavinia Fontana as one of its brightest stars, as the sheer high quality of her incredibly industrious output, which she had begun at the age of 17 with some pretty eye-catching altar-pieces in the manner of Guercino, and then continued, without ever lowering the intellectual rigour of her approach, very much in the mould of the femmes fortes of her times.

How can we voting citizens maintain our critical thinking in an age of information overload?

9 May 2018 - 18:00

Lecture in English by Heather Grabbe

The thinking brain is the nerve-centre of democracy. Critical thinking is how citizens evaluate their choices in elections and decide how to engage in politics. We have free will when we can think for ourselves. John Stuart Mill wrote in On Liberty: 'Over himself, over his own body and mind, the individual is sovereign'. But there are plenty of ways of losing the sovereignty inside your own head. This lecture will explore how we citizens of the information age can protect our ability to distinguish between truth and falsehood, both to play our role as voters and to maintain our collective and individual freedoms. Heather Grabbe is director of the Open Society European Policy Unit.

Music for pianoforte and violin by Mozart, Beethoven and Chausson

Language of my choosing

23 May 2018 - 18:00

Lecture in English by Anne Pia

Edinburgh-based Anne Pia will read selected extracts from her acclaimed memoir of growing up in and growing away from an Italian-Scots family. The book raises issues ranging from the impact of the Arandora Star tragedy, in which her grandfather lost his life; to the complications of divorce in an Italian community in the 1950s; the struggle between tradition and modernity; the role of religion in Italian Scots life; and, the thirst for independence which is never free of the need to belong. Identity and impermanence lie at the heart of what is ultimately an account of self-direction and triumph.

Recitativo/Clouds and Noise – Fragments after Lucretius and Negri

30 May 2018 - 18:00

Performance by David Ryan and musicians

A performance with video exploring fragments from Titus Lucretius Carus' On the Nature of Things, a classical text dating from the 1st century BCE. This multidisciplinary performance explores Lucretius' commitment to a materialist formation of the universe, in particular the evocative writing on sounds, sensations, nature and time. Also interweaving fragments from contemporary materialist Antonio Negri's Kairos, Alma Venus, Multitudo, the piece aims to explore sound, music, visual fragments, and the voice in the light of Lucretius' theories, creating an amalgam of contemporary music and poetic paraphrase. David Ryan (Video, Direction, Clarinets) is an artist and musician based in Italy and the UK; William Crosby (Guitar); Kelcy Davenport (Speaker); Clare Simmonds (Piano); Joe Zeitlin, (Violoncello); Gianni Trovalusci (Flutes).

DANCE AND THEATRE FOR MAY

SHOWS AT TEATRO VERDI

The 'Teatro Pagliano', which assumed its current name, 'Teatro Verdi,' in 1901, was built during the Grand Ducal period in Florence on the former site of the fourteenth century Stinche Prison. During the nineteenth century, Florence – which was also the capital of Italy - witnessed the construction of many theatres. The Teatro Verdi is the only one still in operation, having lived through a century and a half of history and tremendous change. For Florence and the whole Tuscan region, this theatre represents the focal point for special events and occasions, musical events, and popular performances. The Teatro Verdi was the dream project of Girolamo Pagliano. Pagliano was a former baritone and successful pharmacist who invented an elixir for long life. One of the seven largest theatres in Italy, its importance was clear from its inauguration on September 10th 1854. Viscardello, the original title of Verdi's Rigoletto, was the theatre's inaugural performance. The tradition continues today, with wonderful events and concerts at the stunning venue. THEATRE AT TEATRO DELLA PERGOLA

The Teatro della Pergola is a historic opera house in Florence, Italy. It is located in the centre of the city on Via della Pergola, from which the theatre takes its name. It was built in 1656 under the patronage of Cardinal Gian Carlo de' Medici to designs by the architect Ferdinando Tacca, son of the sculptor Pietro Tacca. The inaugural production was the opera buffa, Il potestà di Colognole by Jacopo Melani. The opera house, the first to be built with superposed tiers of boxes rather than raked semi-circular seating in the Roman fashion, is considered to be the oldest in Italy, having occupied the same site for more than 350 years. It has two auditoria, the Sala Grande, with 1,500 seats, and the Saloncino, a former ballroom located upstairs which has been used as a recital hall since 1804 and which seats 400.
